

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A digital video or still camera including optical character recognition and translator functions to translate text included in captured images. Cursor control allows the user to identify the desired text with the image. Translation is also possible on text included in images replayed from the camera's memory.

1. A digital video or still camera including optical character recognition and translator functions to translate text included in captured images. Cursor control allows the user to identify the desired text with the image. Translation is also possible on text included in images replayed from the camera's memory.